A word from the Manager — The power of small wins

Last month New Zealand hosted the World Masters Games 2017. It was a massive event with some 25,000 participants competing across a myriad of sports. Participants came from all walks of life, and ordinary folk could find themselves competing with professional athletes and past Olympians, and sometimes winning (like Fisher Funds' very own adviser, James Paterson, who won gold for his football skills).

I've spoken to several participants who just loved being part of the event and celebrated their results with disproportionate glee — "it was great, I finished 18th of 24 in the field"!

Markets displayed similarly disproportionate reactions during April, with relief rallies on insubstantial news.

The first round of the French election saw a broadly balanced result with centrist Emmanuel Macron winning 24% of the vote and the far right anti-Euro Marine Le Pen winning 21.3%. The real battle is still to be fought in the May 7 election, but investors were happy to celebrate nevertheless.

Similarly, President Trump announced his much anticipated tax plan, which contained few surprises and is unlikely to survive in its current form; but investors were nevertheless pleased to have something to react to, and react they did (positively).

Along with political developments, the US earnings reporting season and economic data releases in the US, Europe and Asia have been broadly neutral of late, but they've had a positive bias and these 'small wins' have resulted in an optimistic market tone and a return of the 'risk-on' trade.

While the market's optimism might look excessive based on the underlying news, we should not underestimate the power of small wins.

Pulitzer prize-winning journalist and author, Charles Duhigg said, "small wins are exactly what they sound like, and are a part of how keystone habits create widespread changes. A huge body of research has shown that small wins have enormous power, an influence disproportionate to the accomplishments of the victories themselves. Once one small win takes place, forces are set in motion that favour another small win."

Perhaps we should feel optimistic about the markets' optimism; it sure makes a pleasant change from the sense of impending doom that markets have struggled to shake off in recent years. If what we are experiencing is a shift away from the macro focus (interest rates, politics and geo-political issues) towards a bottom-up micro focus (considering the merits of individual investments) we should feel gleeful indeed.

As you know, the Fisher Funds investment team spends little time second-guessing big picture trends. They are almost impossible to pick ahead of time, becoming obvious only with the benefit of hindsight. We know that we can't control macro events, but we can control the construction of the Kingfish portfolio to ensure that it has every opportunity to perform.

Long may the market remain optimistic and focused on the things that really matter!

Definitions of non-GAAP measures:

Adjusted Net Asset Value (Adjusted NAV)

The adjusted NAV per share represents the total assets of Kingfish (investments and cash) minus any liabilities (expenses and tax), divided by the number of shares on issue. It adds back dividends paid to shareholders and adjusts for:

- » the impact of shares issued under the dividend reinvestment plan at the discounted reinvestment price;
- » shares bought on-market (share buybacks) at a price different to the NAV, and;
- » warrants exercised at a price different to the NAV at the time exercised.

Adjusted NAV assumes all dividends are reinvested in the company's dividend reinvestment plan and excludes imputation credits.

The directors believe this metric to be useful as it reflects the underlying performance of the investment portfolio adjusted for dividends, share buybacks and warrants, which are capital allocation decisions and not a reflection of the portfolio's performance.

Total Shareholder Return (TSR)

The TSR combines the share price performance, the warrant price performance (when warrants are on issue), the net value of converting warrants into shares and dividends paid to shareholders.

TSR assumes:

- » all dividends paid are reinvested in the company's dividend reinvestment plan at the discounted reinvestment price and exclude imputation credits, and;
- » all shareholders that have received warrants (for free), have subsequently exercised their warrants at the warrant expiry date and bought shares (if they were in the money).

The directors believe this metric to be useful as it reflects the return of an investor who reinvests their dividends and, if in the money, exercises their warrants at warrant maturity date for additional shares. No metric has been included for investors who choose other investment options.

About Kingfish

Kingfish is an investment company listed on the New Zealand Stock Exchange. The company gives shareholders an opportunity to invest in a diversified portfolio of between 15 and 25 growing New Zealand companies through a single, professionally managed investment. The aim of Kingfish is to offer investors competitive returns through capital growth and dividends.

Management

Kingfish's portfolio is managed by Fisher Funds Management Limited. Sam Dickie (Senior Portfolio Manager), Zoie Regan (Senior Investment Analyst) and Matt Peek (Investment Analyst) have prime responsibility for managing the Kingfish portfolio. Together they have over 40 years combined experience and are very capable of researching and investing in the quality New Zealand companies that Kingfish targets. Fisher Funds is based in Takapuna, Auckland.

Board

The Manager has authority delegated to it from the Board to invest according to the Management Agreement and other written policies. The Board of Kingfish comprises independent directors Alistair Ryan (Chair), Carol Campbell and Andy Coupe; and non-independent director Carmel Fisher.

Capital Management Strategies

Regular Dividends

- » Quarterly distribution policy introduced in June 2009
- » Under this policy, 2% of average NAV is targeted to be paid to shareholders quarterly
- » Dividends paid by Kingfish may include dividends received, interest income, investment gains and/or return of capital
- » This policy is well received by shareholders as it provides an attractive and regular return that is referable to the NAV
- » Shareholders who prefer to have increased capital rather than a regular income stream have the opportunity to participate in the company's dividend reinvestment plan (DRP)
- » Shares issued to DRP participants are at a 3% discount to market price
- » Kingfish became a portfolio investment entity on 1 October 2007. As a result, dividends paid to New Zealand tax resident shareholders have not been subject to further tax

Share Buyback Programme

- » Kingfish has a buyback programme in place allowing it (if it elects to do so) to acquire up to 7.7m of its shares on market in the year to 31 October 2017
- » Shares bought back by the company are held as treasury stock
- » Shares held as treasury stock are available to be re-issued for the dividend reinvestment plan and to pay performance fees

Warrants

- » On 19 April 2016, a new issue of warrants (KFLWD) was announced
- » The warrants were issued at no cost to shareholders and in the ratio of one warrant for every four Kingfish shares held
- » The warrants had a final Exercise Price of $1.21 and were exercisable on the Exercise Date of 5th May 2017
- » Each warrant exercised entitles the holder to one ordinary Kingfish share and such share was allotted on 9th May 2017
